

Asia Pacific Judicial Reform Forum
3rd Round Table Meeting in Singapore

Making the Civil Litigation System More Efficient

Speech of the Honourable Justice Judith Prakash,
Judge of the Supreme Court of Singapore

Introduction – Then & Now

SUPREME COURT
SINGAPORE

- Access to Justice as a cornerstone.
- Present position in Singapore:
 - 2006: Singapore Judiciary cleared 375,000 existing matters – clearance rate: 99%
 - 2007: Supreme Court cleared 8,319 cases while 8,046 cases were filed – clearance rate: 103%
 - No backlog of cases
 - Supreme Court: at least 85% of writ actions are disposed of within 18 months of filing

Introduction – Then & Now

SUPREME COURT
SINGAPORE

- Early 1990s:
 - Massive backlog of cases
 - In Supreme Court, more than 2,000 pending cases set down for trial, but trial dates 3 years or more after set down
 - More than 10,000 inactive cases, some more than 10 years old
 - About 44% of cases took between 5-10 years from commencement to disposal
 - Appeals took 2-3 years to be heard

Introduction – Then & Now

SUPREME COURT
SINGAPORE

- Problem tackled by:
 1. Appointing more judges;
 2. Changing rules of procedure;
 3. Denying adjournments;
 4. Giving hearing dates to moribund cases;
 5. Expanding jurisdiction of subordinate courts.

Introduction – Then & Now

SUPREME COURT
SINGAPORE

- Result:
 - Backlog for High Court: reduced from 2,059 in 1991 to 175 cases in 1993
 - Backlog for Court of Appeal: reduced from 275 appeals in 1991 to 71 appeals in 1993

Monitoring to Prevent Impending Backlogs

Clearance Rates

No. of pending matters disposed of as a percentage of no. of new matters filed

Monitor clearance rates for individual categories of cases also

Disposal Timelines

Lifespan of cases (how long each case takes to clear system)

85% cases disposed of within 18 months from filing

Trial Date Availability

8 weeks between set-down and trial

Ensure trial dates are not too far in the future
